Sugar, Sugar She sits alone waiting for suggestions Hes is so nervous, avoiding all the issues His lips are dry, her heart gently pounding you just know exactly what they think if you want my body and you think Im sexy come on sugar let me know. If you really need me just to reach out and touch me Let's honey tell me so tell me so tell me to baby Hes acting shy looking for an answer Let's honey lets spend the night together Now hold on for a minute before we go much further Give me a penny so I can call my mother They catch a taxi in his high-rise apartment Finally he can tell her what exactly his heart meant if you want my body and you think I'm sexy come on honey tell me, so if you really need me just to reach out and touch me Let's let the sugar let me know His heart is beating like drum cos, finally he has this girl home Relax baby now we're alone They wake up at dawn because all the birds are singing two complete strangers, but what Aint what they think Outside cold, foggy and it's raining They got each other none of them complain He says I'm sorry but I'm out of milk and coffee Let's say sugar we can watch an early movie if you want to my body and you think I'm sexy Come on Sugar let me know if you really need me just to reach out and touch me Let's honey tell me so tell me so tell me to baby Hes acting shy looking for an answer Let's honey lets spend the night together Now hold on for a minute before we go much further Give me a penny so I can call my mother They catch a taxi in his high-rise apartment Finally he can tell her what exactly his heart meant if you want my body and you think I'm sexy come on honey tell me, so if you really need me just to reach out and touch me Let's let the sugar let me know His heart is beating like drum cos, finally he has this girl home Relax baby now we're alone They wake up at dawn because all the birds are singing two complete strangers but it's not what they think outside cold, foggy and it's raining They've got each other no complains He says I'm sorry but I'm out of milk and coffee Not to mention sugar we can watch an early movie if you want to my body and you think I'm sexy Come on sugar let me know if you really need me just to reach out and touch me Come come honey tell me so if you really need me just to reach out and touch me come on sugar let me know if you really, really, really need me just let me know, just give up and touch me if you really want me to just reach out and touch me if you really want to if you know if you are, if you are, if you really need me just come and tell me soWriter (s): Rod Stewart, Carmine Appice, Dwayne Hitchins 1978 single by Rod Stewart Da Ya Think I'm Sexy Single by Rod Stewart from the album Blondes Have More Fun–Side Dirty Weekend (UK)Scared and Scared (USA) Released November 10, 1978Decoded1978GenreDiscoLength5:31 (album version)6:29 (12-inches LabelWarner Bros.Songwriter (s)Rod StewartCarmine AppiceDuane HitchingsProducer (s) Tom DowdRod Stewart singles chronology Ole Ola (Mulher Brasileira) (1978) Da Ya Think I'm Sexy (1978) Not Love A Bitch (1979) Da Ya Think I'm Sexy Music Video? on YouTube Da Ya Think I'm Sexy? is a song by British singer Rod Stewart from his 1978 album Blondes Have More Fun. It was written by Stewart, Carmine Upship and Dwayne Hitching, although it includes a melody from Jorge Ben Jorah's Taj Mahal and a string arrangement from Bobby Womack's Put Something Down On It. The song was included on Stewart's album Blondes Have More Fun and was released as a single in November 1978. He spent one week at the top of the UK charts in December 1978 and four weeks atop the US Billboard Hot 100 in February 1979. Billboard placed it at number four on the 1979 Top Singles chart. It also topped the Australian charts for two weeks. The royalties from this song were donated to the United Nations Children's Fund (United Nations Children's Fund), and Stewart performed the song at the Music for the United Nations Children's Fund concert at the United Nations General Assembly in January 1979. Rolling Stone put the song at number 308 on the list of the 500 Greatest Songs of All in Time. Background and writing Carmine Aphis, who played drums on the song, told Songfacts: It was the story of a guy meeting a chick at a club. It was a great saying at the time. If you listen to the text: She sits alone, waiting for suggestions, he is so nervous... it's a sense of what's going on in the dance club. The guy sees the chicken he digs, she gets nervous and he gets nervous and she's alone and doesn't know what's going on, then they end up in his place to have sex and then she's gone. In a 2007 interview, co-writer Dwayne Hitchins noted that Da Ya Think I'm Sexy? was a parody of the cocaine lizard's guys on Saturday night. We rock and roll guys thought we were dead meat when this movie and the Bee Gees came out. The Bee Gees were brilliant musicians and very good There's no big ego. Rod, in his brilliance, decided to make a parody of the disco. A very intelligent man. There is no such thing as blunt super success in the music business. Further information: information: of the songs that were the subject of plagiarism controversy It was noted that Stewart created parts of the song through musical plagiarism. The copyright infringement lawsuit by Brazilian musician Jorge Ben Jorah claimed that the chorus of the song was derived from his song Taj Mahal. The case was settled amicably according to Jorge Ben Jor, in favor of Ben Jorah. Stewart confessed in his 2012 autobiography to the unconscious plagiarism of a Ben Jor song he heard while attending the Rio Carnival in 1978. He also admitted that he deliberately picked up the song's signature synth riff from a string arrangement on Bobby Womack's song If You Want My Love) Put Something Down On It. Stewart argues that it is legal to raise a line from the arrangement of any song until the main melody line is copied. The song's reception was criticized by many in the rock press as a betrayal of Stewart's blues-oriented rock roots, due to its disco-like arrangement, but Stewart and others were quick to point out that other widely respected artists, such as Paul McCartney and the Rolling Stones, also released disco-flavored songs. However, the song has since experienced some retrospective acclaim as Rolling Stone has put the song at number 308 on its list of the 500 Greatest Songs of All Time. (1997) Ooh La La (1998) Da Ya Think I'm Sexy Music Video? on YouTube In 1997, the song was remixed by English electronic dance music group N-Trance for their second album Happy Hour and contains lyrics from a version of Millie Jackson (performed by vocalist Kelly Lorena). He was featured in the film Night in Roxbury the following year. This version became a hit in late 1997, topped the New York singles chart for three weeks, peaking at number seven on the UK Singles Chart and earning double platinum sales certification in Australia, where it peaked at number three. Critical reception Larry Flick from Billboard described the song as another piece of flashback fever. He noted that with his recognizable hook, the base of the shakin, ricardo da Forsa's quest rap, the weeping diva Kelly Lorenne and Stewart himself, this revamped remake could well be the unexpected radio hit of the summer. Of course, this could also become a novelty in this month's record.
